

FROM THE RABBI'S CABIN

G-d does not go on vacation. . . Business people go on vacation. Doctors and lawyers go on vacation. Even Rabbis and Cantors go on vacation. Mothers hardly ever are on vacation--but some vacations they take!

But G-d does not go on vacation at all. Neither He nor His Torah fade out of the scene, out of contact. It is important to remember that as we make the transition into summer spirit.

Whatever our plans are, it is vital to recall that Torah's demands on us are not lessened during July and August. Standards of t'zniut (modesty) are not decreased due to the heat. Expectations as to frequency and times of prayer are not modified by travel plans. The human mind is a delicate instrument, and it begins to atrophy very rapidly when its synapses are not used; Jewish intellectual exercise is as essential during the summer as it is during the other ten months of the year.

Incidentally, if you are looking for some fascinating and challenging Jewish reading for the summer, I would recommend any one of three recent books which have begun to chart a new area of application of halacha--of business practice and ethics. The books are:

1. "Free Enterprise and Jewish Law" by Rabbi Dr. Aaron Levine of Yeshiva University (Ktav, 1980), and its sequel,
2. "Economics and Jewish Law" by the same author (Ktav, 1987).

These two books constitute a fascinating beginning to what will certainly become an increasingly important area of halachic study.

3. "With All Your Possessions" by Dr. Meir Tamari of Bar Ilan University (Free Press, 1987), subtitled "Jewish Ethics and Economic Life", covers much of the same material as Dr. Levine's book but makes its own distinct contribution to the literature of business ethics.

To return to my theme, the Jewishness of our lives should not be permitted to decline during the summer. While withdrawal for regeneration may be necessary, let us make the withdrawal from the material, not the spiritual, side of our existence.

CANTOR GOFFIN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CANTORIAL COUNCIL

Our own Chaz, Cantor Sherwood Goffin, was inaugurated as President of the Cantorial Council of America, an affiliate of Yeshiva University, at a convention at the Homowack on Tuesday evening, June 30, 1987. Cantor Goffin has served as Vice President for the past 15 years. The Cantorial Council of America is the only cantorial organization in the world that requires its members to be Shomrei Mitzvot as its standard for acceptance. We are proud that our Chaz has been given this great honor and we wish him success for the coming year.

More Regarding the Mishnah Program

A Romantic Fifty Days
By Lois Carol Schlar & Al Martin

"The two of you are doing what for Shavout?"

"We're studying Mishna Rosh Hashanah," we repeated to our friends.

A pause.

"How romantic," the sigh came back. And with that we persevered.

During the seven weeks between Passover and Erev Shavuot, we pushed on in our studies. We subjected each of our Shabbat guests to a little learn-along with us.

Our guests included: a female JTS rabbinical student who expanded upon the four Rosh Hashanas; a non-observant friend who was amazed that the classical texts allowed "desecration of the Sabbath" by traveling and carrying to Jerusalem in order to give testimony for the new moon; and a ba'alat tshuvah Lubavitch friend who enjoyed the opportunity to study in a non-threatening environment.

When we began, we were not certain that we would be in the City for Yom Tov, but a job change kept us city-bound. We looked forward to making new friends with other individuals who had been assigned the same mishna. This was perhaps our only disappointment--there was no pairing of learners or studying together the second afternoon. What did occur was a pleasant luncheon for individuals who had been diligent in their studies. We walked up from the upper Lower East Side--an invigorating experience. For the opportunity to meet and dine with likeminded [potential] friends, we will hike happily and often.

Dear Fellow Siyum participants,

Although I could not be there in person, I did want to express in writing my simcha at having participated and joined with you in this Siyum Mishnayos. I've participated in such learning experiences before and have always found them not only edifying but gratifying. I think it's a wonderful idea and one that hopefully will be perpetuated for some years to come at LSS.

As some of you may know, I am planning in the near future to be married, and to leave the LSS community. It therefore seemed only appropriate to learn a masechet from Seder Nashim, Ketubot. It would be my privilege to continue to participate in such learning experiences in the future with the LSS community as an acknowledgement that Torah learning bridges all gaps of time and space, linking communities and its members wherever they may be. Yasher koach!

Sincerely,
David L. Berkovitz

Reflections.....

I was sitting near the back of the LSS ballroom where the guest lecturer, a rabbi from Brooklyn, was speaking on and on about why women's prayer groups were meaningless. The questions from the audience were mostly pro-women, advancing the argument that if women sincerely wanted to do it to enhance their prayer experience and it didn't go against the teachings of the Torah, then why not do it. But the rabbi held his position.

Just then, I looked to my right and witnessed a moment when one person sees another person he/she hasn't seen for a long time--their faces light up and they

FROM THE ## PRESIDENT'S DESK

This issue of Echod marks the thirteenth time our Shul newsletter has appeared since last September and I want to publicly state how indebted I am to Rissi Zweig, Michele Morse and Arleen Jucker (Mazel Tov on your recent marriage!) for all they have done to make this feat a reality.

Increasing the flow of meaningful information to our members was a major goal of this administration, and it is due to the year-long efforts of these three women that this publication appeared so regularly. I also want to thank all those who wrote articles or letters or made suggestions. We are exploring ways to improve printing quality and add photographs for next year, and it's not too soon to pen your own contributions for publication in the fall . . . . .

. . . The last week of May saw not one but two spectacular dinners at Lincoln Square. On Wednesday evening, May 27, over 250 people were privileged to be present at the creation of a major new Jewish ritual: a Yom Yerushalayim Seder, composed and arranged by our Rabbi and performed by him and our Cantor in the Haines Ballroom. I predict that not only will this service become a popular tradition in our own congregation but, upon publication, will be adopted by communities throughout the world. Once again Bina Presser and her colleagues on our Israel Affairs Committee outdid themselves in arranging a beautifully appropriate manner for LSSers to commemorate our modern day miracles. Of course, the second dinner of the last week in May was our annual Journal Dinner and that, too, became a Yom Tov as almost 400 people celebrated the birthday of Lincoln Square Synagogue and the contributions of Mark and Shirley Wald and Amos and Miryam Alter. The warmth that emanated from the awards ceremony in the sanctuary was greater than the air conditioning could handle and the words of our Rabbi and the honorees' own children made crystal-clear the appropriateness of this tribute. Another aspect of that appropriateness was the monetary success of the event as we surpassed our goal of $210,000 and had the most successful journal in our history. Steven and Gale Spira, Jerry and Carol Gross, Roy and Judi Stern, Peter and Agnes Kolevzon, Martha Cohn and Rabbi Martin Katz spearheaded this major undertaking and devoted massive amounts of time to insuring its success. They all received effusive thanks at the dinner, but we will never be able to thank them enough . . . . .

. . While I am thanking people, I also want to take this opportunity to pay tribute to two very special men: Leon "Muk" Eisenmann and David Olivestone. Both of them are stepping down after serving as officers of the congregation for a number of years in order to allow other people to have the privilege of serving on our Executive Committee. While I shall miss their intelligence, experience, deep concern and outright love for our congregation at the officers' meetings, I am consoled by the fact that we will continue to benefit from their leadership in other ways. Both will continue as trustees and, while David has assumed the co-chairmanship of our new Education Committee, "Muk" will continue his important work as a Gabbai and as head of the Chevra Kadisha . . . . .

. . I draw your attention to an article in the New York Times of June 6 entitled "Charitable Gifts and Tax Law" which comes to the surprising conclusion that contrary to popular belief, many specialists who have become familiar with the new law now feel that "the cost of making charitable gifts is actually less now for a large number of taxpayers than it was before." The article refers specifically to gifts of appreciated property including stocks. Our Synagogue offers a number of vibrant opportunities to memorialize loved ones through the endowment of classes, annual lecture series and special events; and, if you contact me, Rabbi Katz or Rabbi Cohen, we will be glad to illustrate them for you . . . . . Please save the date: Saturday evening, October 24, for our annual Melave Malka and General Membership meeting . . . . . Another successful effort this past year was our effort to sponsor a kiddush each week for those attending the main minyan. This came about in two ways: by requesting that each Bar Mitzvah family sponsor a

ANNUAL DINNER IS A SUCCESS

Lincoln Square's 22nd Annual Dinner went smoothly and overwhelmingly succeeded on all fronts.

The Journal Campaign exceeded its $210,000 goal, thanks to the unstinting efforts, dedication and persistence of Journal chairpersons Carol and Jerry Gross and Gale and Steven Spira.

The evening started downstairs with cocktails and hors-d'oeuvres in the Haines Ballroom, accompanied by a first at LSS: flute and viola chamber music. The food was varied from the required smoked salmon to caviar and pasta. After a lovely cocktail hour we moved upstairs for the formal part of the program.

The honorees spoke movingly and well about the LSS community. Miryam Alter and Mark Wald may have been outdone by their respective offspring. Yoel Alter delivered a fine d'var Torah and his sister Leah spoke wistfully but with palpable pride about Amos's frequent absences from home to do good deeds. Debra and Dina Wald, third generation LSS members of the Wald family, spoke eloquently of their parents' love and guidance and helped those present better understand what special people Mark and Shirley are. Rabbi Berman spoke about the contributions of both families and how they represent the best in our Community.

The formal program ended upstairs with an appropriate song by the Chaz and Mincha service, after which all returned to the ballroom.

The tables were decorated festively with a gorgeous array of flowers donated by Reuven Florists. Jonah Kupietsky and his staff served a fine meal and outdid themselves with many special "extras."

The dinner was punctuated with a hilarious skit by the Lincoln Square Players. Written, directed and produced by the renown team of Joel and Noreen Wachs, an octogenarian named Martha Cohn stole the show. After more dancing and singing the evening came to a close. Dinner chairpersons Agnes and Peter Kolevzon and Judi and Roy Stern had produced an evening to remember.

move to each other with joy in every step. In this case, the two women said each others' names and embraced as if it had been years. They were leaning against the back wall, talking words I could not hear but expressing feelings I could understand.

A hub-bub in the auditorium began as the lights in the big room were going off, then on, then off. The rabbi continued to talk about the meaninglessness of women's prayer groups. An officer of the synagogue then walked to the back of the room and pointed to the women still aglow with their meeting. "Could you move away from there? You're on the light switch." The women moved away and continued their animated conversation. The lights came on and the rabbi continued to say what he had been saying all along. It occurred to me that the sincere desire of women to express themselves in a way that is meaningful to them and appropriate to the tradition they've embraced will be like a groundswell that can't be stopped. . . as opposition slowly fades into darkness.

kiddush and by starting a Kiddush Fund to provide a kiddush when there was no single sponsor. This has been a huge success, but there is a long summer ahead and the fund is running dry. Please help out. . . . . I want to thank all the members of LSS for affording me the privilege of serving as President during this past year. It has been hard work, but the satisfaction of serving this remarkable institution has provided satisfactions I will cherish forever. My best wishes for a healthy and enjoyable summer.

THE FIRST INTERMEDIATE MINYANAIRRES'
SHABBATON by Cindy Becker

Thanks to the Abelow family and our hosts, 15 fearless New Yorkers descended on Baltimore ready to demonstrate a real "West Side" Shabbat. The Abelows transformed their basement into a shul (so we would feel at home) and Peter led us into a beautiful Kabbalat Shabbat and Maariv service. Following services we had the first of several wonderful meals. On Shabbos morning we scurried to our "shul" amid a loud buzzing in the air--it was the Arbeh (locust) plague of June 1987. We began to sympathize with the Egyptians.

Morning davening was topped off by an outstanding d'var Torah by Karen Bader. Afterwards, we had kiddush and lunch outdoors and took a walking tour of the lovely neighborhood and/or napped.

We returned for Mincha, chavrusa learning, a session by Rabbi Brander and Sudat Shlisheet.

We later hit the town: Harbor Place, dining on pizza, touring Peter's school (2 a.m.)--15 meshuganah Jews in a light blue van!

Thank you Dr. and Mrs. Abelow and your family for giving us such a wonderful Shabbat experience; thank you Rabbi and Mrs. Brander for organizing this shabbaton; and thank you David Salem for getting us there and home safely.

NURSERY NEWS

The LSS Nursery ended the year with trips to the farm and the fire house.

At Green Meadows Farm we saw cows, ducks, chickens, goats, sheep and other animals. The calf was named Domino. Everyone rode on a pony and we finished with a bumpy hayride.

The firemen we visited were not the ones who are usually at our firehouse. They were visiting from their firehouse in Harlem because the regular firemen were out at a fire. They let all the children climb on the fire engine. Rose and Dena got a chance to slide down the fireman pole from the second floor of the firehouse.

Nursery School finished on June 12.
School will start again on September 14.

A GREAT COOKBOOK IS IN THE MAKING!
by Karen Lehmann Eisner

Have you always wanted to make a great cholent but were afraid it would burn? Have you always wondered how to make a caramelized custard or make a souffle rise? Are you tired of the standard chicken soup, chicken and kugel Shabbos meal and crave an updated version with a bit more pizzazz and flavor?

Well, Lincoln Square Synagogue is going to publish a shul cookbook with all of your favorite recipes for local and even possibly nationwide distribution. But we need your help!

Please send us your favorite recipes for appetizers, hors-d'oeuvres, soups, entrees, desserts and special holiday meals. If you have a history or a story that comes with a recipe please include it.

This request for recipes applies to the men of the community as well as the women. Please don't be shy! Send in whatever recipes you'd like to share (or those your friends have been dying to have) and we'll publish them in the LSS cookbook. ### REMINDER

All LSS members have received their May statements along with a personal letter requesting that they pay up as much of their bill as possible in order to help the synagogue make it through the summer, a time in which we usually have a cash flow problem.

We would greatly appreciate your adhering to the above and we wish you a healthy and happy summer!
