Congregation to Host Yeshiva University Lecture

We wish to remind our readers that the congregation will serve as host for the second lecture in the Colloquium for Synagogue Leaders on Monday evening, February 20. On that occasion Dr. Norman Frimer will discuss the subject: "Campus Youth — a Challenge."

We are most anxious for the members of the congregation and their friends to turn out for this occasion. This marks a first experiment by Yeshiva University in the field of public educational lectures for congregations in the New York community.

Make it a point to be with us at 8:00 o'clock on Monday evening, February 20, for the cocktail reception and at 9:00 o'clock for the lecture.

Cub Scouts Help "Pack" Father and Son Minyan

Last Sunday morning the synagogue chapel was filled to capacity with a large gathering of fathers and sons who participated in the regular Sunday morning Minyan program sponsored by the Men's Club. The special occasion was a dedication program for the cub pack which is sponsored by the Ramaz School Parents Council.

The entire membership of the cub pack appeared in uniform and participated in the service and the breakfast which followed. Many of them were joined by their fathers who were equally enthusiastic in their participation.

The occasion was a memorable one in the season for the Father and Son Minyan. Those who officiated last Sunday as cantors were Binyamin Shudofsky, Jonathan Javitt, Aaron Holzer and Ben Zion Kogen.

The Father and Son Minyan will continue its regular schedule of Sunday morning services this coming Sunday at 9:30 o'clock.

"On Being Soft and Hard"

According to our portion for this week, the Ark in which the Tablets which Moses received from Sinai were kept was to be made from acacia wood. Several commentators wonder why wood was chosen as the building material for that Ark.

One of these commentators relates this building material to the following remark of our sages: "A man should always try to be as soft as a reed and not as hard as a cedar." He ponders the fact that, despite this comment, softness is not always a virtue, nor is hardness always a negative trait.

One ought to be soft in his daily affairs. In our day, we tend to disparage a person who in his business life behaves like a "softy." In actuality, one ought to be soft in business, not to the point of being weak in decision making but at least remaining soft to the extent that he considers the feelings of others.

Surely, in one's interpersonal relations — another type of "dealing" — a man and a woman ought to be soft, understanding, compassionate, flexible, bending, much like a reed rather than like a cedar.

On the other hand, when it comes to upholding the Torah, man ought to be as firm, as straight and as unwavering as a tall cedar of Lebanon. The winds of circumstance and the currents of contemporary thought ought not to shake him from his roots or divorce him from the rich tradition through which he gathers strength, nourishment and continuity.

Like the cedar, he ought not to be afraid to stand out among his peers. When he is asked: "Why can't you bend with the times," he should be able to stand firm and say: "My tradition is not altered by the times; on the contrary, it is Jewish tradition which itself alters the times, the prevailing view, the false idols, the mistaken doctrines."

To symbolize the unwavering stance of the Traditional Jew in upholding the Torah, the Ark in which the Tablets of the Law were housed was made of wood, a strong material, a "living" material, and an enduring material.

AN ODE TO JEWRY DUTY

We take pleasure in reprinting below an original poem written by William Heyman, an esteemed member of the congregation. Mr. Heyman who is a regular worshipper at morning and evening services, is in the hospital recuperating from illness.

We wish him a speedy recovery and look forward to his return to regular activities of the congregation.

The poem speaks for itself. It is especially timely in this season of the year when, with some of our regulars away, our morning and evening services are somewhat depleted. You can help the congregation and perform an important mitzvah at the same time. Join us morning or evening, whenever you can.

FILET MINYAN

We're a little group of pietists
Who keep the Golden Rule.
And when it comes to davening,
We're stubborn as a mule.
If you ask us where we're going
Why we're on our way to Shul,
For we have to make the Minyan in
the morning.

If the temperature is sizzling
Or the mercury is low,
If the rain comes down in torrents
Or the roads are deep in snow,
And the winds come round a-howling
Still we never fail to show,
For we have to make the Minyan in
the morning.

Our Synagogue is gorgeous
And the service is divine.
But it's in the little chapel
Where we have to hold the line,
For you cannot say a Kaddish
When the count is only nine,
So, come help us make the Minyan
in the morning.

If the good Lord finds it fitting
And has to cut us down.
We go searching for replacements
And we scout around the town.
If you want to have a Mitzvah
That will bolster your renown,
Come, help us make the Minyan in
the morning.

William Heyman

MEMORIAL SERVICE ON MARCH 21st

On Tuesday evening, March 21st, a Memorial Evening will be held in our Main Synagogue. At that time, the plaques inscribed on the various memorial tablets will be unveiled and dedicated.

The evening has been set aside to provide an opportunity for tribute and reverence to those whose memory will live on in our Synagogue.

The memory of loved ones certainly lives on in the homes and hearts of dear ones. By affixing a plaque in our House of God, one is assured of a memorial in perpetuity. Whenever Yizkor Prayers are recited, the deceased is remembered. On the occasion of the Yahrzeit, lights are kindled in memory of the departed one, and memorial prayers are recited.

It would be fitting to memorialize your dear ones by inscribing a plaque on our Memorial Tablets. The charge for a plaque is $250.00.

A reservation form is provided on this page for those who wish to order a plaque.

SISTERHOOD HAPPY DAY FUND
